VOTE FOR NEW BOARD OFFICERS

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we unfortunately had to cancel our general membership meeting, which occurs during the Society's spring social dinner event. As a result, the Board of Directors has decided to conduct the election of new Board officers via email. The slate of candidates is as follows:

Vice President/President-elect:
Dr. Tracy Nichols, an APSU alum and assistant professor of communication at APSU.

Directors (3 slots available):
Dr. Dewey Browder, past president, has volunteered to remain on the Board as a director. The candidates for the remaining two director slots are Major General (ret.) Walt Lord and Dr. Harry Young. General Lord is retired from the U.S. Army and is now Vice President of the Government Division for FileBank, Inc. He and his wife, Grace, moved to Clarksville a year ago. Dr. Young, a native of Belize, is assistant professor of political science at APSU.

Woodward Library Continues to Serve During Pandemic

The Woodward Library is closed to visitors due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Library staff and faculty continue to assist students remotely by offering online resources, answering reference questions, and safely circulating items to the APSU community. The Library worked with Distance Education to provide MiFi hotspots to APSU students who do not have internet access at home and laptops students could take home to finish their spring classes online. The lobby is open for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Mondays and Thursday to allow APSU students, faculty, and staff to pick up and return books, media materials, laptops, and hotspots.

Staff Spotlight

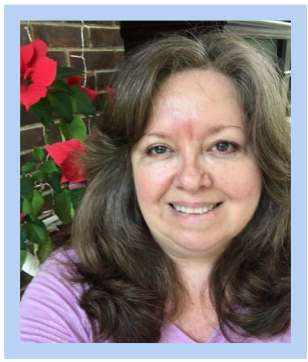
Denise Hemingway started working at the Woodward Library in 1980 as a student assistant, and became a staff member in 1985. In the last 40 years, Denise has worked under five directors through various job assignments, achieved several promotions, and learned many aspects of the library world that increased her knowledge and love for books. In 1988, she earned a bachelor's of business administration in education from APSU, received the designation of Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) in 1995, and became a public notary in 2018. Currently, Denise serves as the collections and resources library associate and is responsible for maintaining and processing all electronic resources and coordinating the collection budget analysis operations. She still has a typewriter in her office–just in case. Her husband Kirk and her two daughters Michelle and Kara are all APSU graduates. Her family also includes one grandchild, two grand pups, two dogs, and one cat.



Teresa Beyke was born and raised in Clarksville. She earned an associate's degree in business data processing (computer science) from Nashville Tech. In 2009, she began working at the Woodward Library and currently serves as secretary and assistant to the director of library services. Her responsibilities include performing secretarial duties for the library director and faculty, managing library office operations, and assisting in various projects. She also prepares and types correspondence, reports, and statistical/financial analysis for the library. She loves to read and is especially fond of mysteries. Teresa became a grandmother this year and she is really enjoying her new role.
