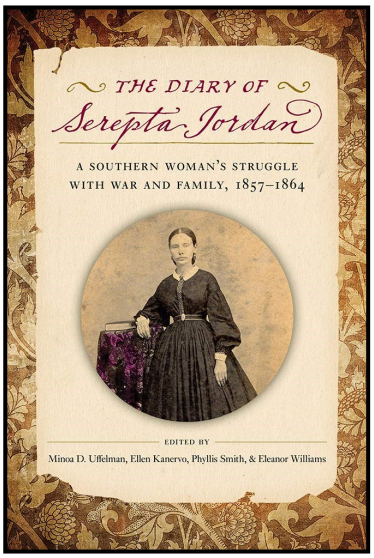
WHAT'S NEW

Society Social Cancelled



Due to the coronavirus pandemic, all University-sponsored events have been cancelled until further notice and, unfortunately, that includes the Spring Social. We hope to reschedule it for a later date, but at this time we do not know when University events will resume.

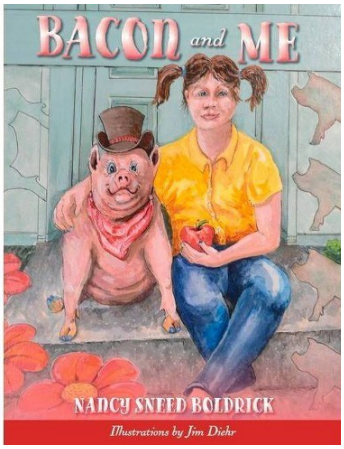
The good news is we can still announce that our premier presentation was going to be Minoa Uffelman, Ellen Kanervo, Phyllis Smith, and Eleanor Williams discussing their latest book The Diary of Serepta Jordan: A Southern Woman's Struggle with War and Family, 1857-1864. The book's release date is scheduled for April 15, 2020, and you can order a copy from The University of Tennessee Press.

Serepta Jordan's daily diary of life in New Providence, Tennessee from the fall of 1857 to the summer of 1864 enriches Civil War history with a unique female voice. Uffelman, Kanervo, Smith, and Williams relay Jordan's local news reports and war updates while preserving her thoughts and feelings about the Civil War and those involved in the conflict. Jordan's diary includes details about her daily activities and social life, providing a fascinating look at life in the Clarksville area more than 150 years ago.

Texts for Vets

The Woodward Library is working with the Military Student Center (MSC) to house and distribute textbooks for the MSC's Texts for Vets program. The program provides free textbooks to military veterans, active duty members, reservists, national guardsmen, retirees, ROTC students, and their family members. During the 2019 fall semester, the program provided 298 textbooks to students.

2020 Winter Program



The Winter Program featured Dr. Jim Diehr speaking about his latest project illustrating the children's book Bacon and Me by Nancy Sneed Boldrick.

Diehr discussed his creative process for illustrating a book about a young girl, her Harley-riding grandmother, and a pet pig named Bacon. A lively question and answer session followed the presentation, and a good time was had by all.

Librarian Spotlight

Ross Bowron

Ross Bowron earned a bachelor's degree in history and political science from Warren Wilson College. While there, he worked as a student assistant in the library, which led him to pursue a master's degree in Library and Information Science from the University of South Carolina. After graduating, Ross worked in various libraries in Saudi Arabia, East Tennessee, the United Arab Emirates, and Qatar before joining Austin Peay State University in 2014 where he currently serves as the Health Sciences Librarian. Ross enjoys spending time with his family, fishing, hiking, and other outdoor activities.

Ross Recommends: The Eye of the World by Robert Jordan; Major League
